

Cryin' Won't Help You

Hudson Whittaker (»Tampa Red«)/B.B. King, 1956

- 1 Oh no matter what you say baby
No matter what you do
The way you've been treating me woman
Is coming back home to you
- 5 And your crying won't help you, woman
Oh, crying won't help you baby.
Oh, aw! Crying won't help you woman
'cause you've been so mean to me.
- Oh, you must remember baby
- 10 No matter where you go
Watch those seeds you scatter, woman
'cause you're gonna reap just what you sow.
And your crying won't help you, woman.
Oh, crying won't help you now.
- 15 Oh, ow! Crying won't help you, baby
'cause you been so mean to me.

- Oh, the way that you treat me, woman
Just can't understand
Oh, I'm gonna leave you woman
- 20 Let you do the best you can.
And your crying won't help you, baby
Oh, crying won't help you now
Oh, crying won't help you woman
'cause you been so mean to me.
- 25 Look out!

- Oh, just before I leave you woman
Just want to shake your hand
I'm gonna get me a woman, baby
Let you get you a man.
- 30 And your crying won't help you, woman
Crying won't help you now.
Oh, ow, crying won't help you baby
'cause you been so mean to me.
Wooh!

B.B. King med Lucille

Riley B. King (September 16, 1925 – May 14, 2015), known professionally as B.B. King, was an American blues singer-songwriter, guitarist, and record producer. He introduced a sophisticated style of soloing based on fluid string bending, shimmering vibrato, and staccato picking that influenced many later blues electric guitar players. AllMusic recognized King as “the single most important electric guitarist of the last half of the 20th century”.

King was inducted into the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame in 1987 and is one of the most influential blues musicians of all time, earning the nickname "The King of the Blues", and is considered one of the "Three Kings of the Blues Guitar" (along with Albert King and Freddie King, none of whom are related).

King was born on a cotton plantation of Berclair near the city of Itta Bena, Mississippi, and later worked at a cotton gin in Indianola, Mississippi. He was attracted to music and the guitar in church and began his career in juke joints and local radio. He later lived in Memphis and Chicago; then, as his fame grew, he toured the world extensively. King died at 89 in Las Vegas on May 14, 2015.
